

W

CULTURE

Curator Neville Wakefield's Insider Guide to Aspen

The globetrotting curator's new exhibition opens in the mountains of Colorado this weekend. Here are his picks for where to go when you get there.

by Fan Zhong

July 16, 2016 3:30 pm

FULL SCREEN

Zipora Fried, December 5, 2012, 2014.

Courtesy of the artist and On Stellar Rays, New York.

Matthew Day Jackson, 2016.
Courtesy of the artist and Hauser & Wirth, New York.

Richard Prince, Untitled (Mountain), 2015.
Courtesy of the artist and Richard Prince Studio.

FULL SCREEN ↗

The globetrotting curator Neville Wakefield has put on exhibitions everywhere from Gstaad to Marfa (and next year, a new biennial in the desert outside of Palm Springs). This Saturday, he heads to Aspen for "Mount Analogue," a group exhibition Wakefield organized with Meredith Darrow featuring the likes of Richard Prince, Gerhard Richter, Sterling Ruby, and other artists who have a predilection for the slopes. Held at the Performance Ski shop, the show runs through August 14. Here, find Wakefield's must-see stops in Aspen.